If you do not agree to any of these terms, do not use our Service. Stopping using our Service, however, will not relieve you of any outstanding obligations you may have under an Internet Access Service Agreement. In the event of any conflict between any of these Terms and Conditions and any Internet Access Service Agreement, the provisions of the Internet Access Service Agreement shall govern. In the event of any conflict between the provisions of these Terms and Conditions of Service and any other policy of Pine, the provisions of these Terms and Conditions of Service shall govern.

NETWORK MANAGEMENT AND LIMITATIONS ON DATA CONSUMPTION

PINE manages its network with one goal: to deliver the best possible broadband Internet experience to all of its customers. High-speed bandwidth and network resources are not unlimited. Managing the network is essential as PINE works to promote the use and enjoyment of the Internet by all of its customers. The company uses reasonable network management practices that are consistent with industry standards.

The Service is for personal and non-commercial residential use only. PINE reserves the right to suspend or terminate Service accounts where data consumption is not characteristic of a typical residential user. PINE reserves the right to establish a monthly data consumption threshold per customer at any time.

NETWORK TRANSPARENCY

Network Management Practices

PINE provides quality Internet services through proactive network management practices. The network is monitored utilizing real-time evaluation including fault isolation and root-cause analysis. The information is integrated into an automated system with automated call-out and escalation procedures.

Uplink utilization is trended using monthly reporting. Uplink capacity is added proactively as required.

SPAM filtering for e-mail services is provided via the web portal interface. If POP3 or IMAP services are used via Customer supplied software, SPAM filtering must be provided by the customer machine, if required. SPAM may contain harmful information, links, and attachments. The customer assumes ALL risks associated with the use of ANY e-mail or ANY other service, application, or web use.

Network congestion rarely occurs in the network due to applied engineering practices. Pre-defined concentration ratios are adhered to throughout the network. Inter-network and Intra-network ratios are evolving as the nature of traffic and customer habit's change.

Planning and network upgrades insure network concentration points are updated ahead of the growth curve in most cases. The primary cause of network congestion results from a hardware or software malfunction or failure. The Customer may experience mild network congestion during peak usage times.

Since network security is paramount, PINE has ensured that its network is as secure as possible. However, the very nature of the “OPEN” Internet provides ample opportunity for security threats and breaches. For this reason, PINE recommends that every customer utilize a firewall for each computer. In addition, the Customer should keep current with all operating system upgrades and patches to ensure protection against threats. A reputable anti-virus program is also recommended for each Customer computer. Again, PINE is not responsible for ANY damage to hardware or software regardless of the Customer’s adherence to the recommended practices.

Network Blocking

PINE looks at all times to comply with the Open Access guidelines of FCC order 10-201. That being said, in no way will PINE participate in the practice of blocking ports, applications, or any other lawful content. PINE may block Subscriber traffic if PINE reasonably believes that it involves unlawful activity, non-adherence to reasonable usage restrictions, spamming, traffic infected with a virus or bot net, traffic affecting network performance for other customers, anything that degrades or may be harmful to the network or other customers.

PERFORMANCE CHARACTERISTICS

The following technologies are utilized to deliver high speed Internet to PINE customers. Each Customer qualifies for only one of the appropriate technologies depending on the Service location as determined by PINE. The network is in a revolving state of upgrade.

Service Description:

Fixed Wireless: Fixed wireless provides high speed internet allowing for faster download speeds and slower upload speeds. The nature of internet traffic typically melds well with this technology as the consumer typically makes a request (small amount of data) and receives a larger amount of information in return. Many factors affect the overall download and upload speed of a wireless connection and the speeds listed are maximum speeds allowed. Actual use speeds will be less than maximum speeds and use speeds may vary greatly depending on a variety of factors. Fixed wireless product is intended to use at Customer’s premises and not intended to be a mobile device. Customer agrees to use fixed wireless Internet at its set location and not as a traveling device.

Mobile Wireless: Mobile wireless provides high speed internet allowing for faster download speeds and slower upload speeds. The nature of internet traffic typically melds well with this technology as the consumer typically makes a request (small amount of data) and receives a larger amount of information in return. Many factors affect the overall download and upload speed of a wireless connection and the speeds listed are maximum speeds allowed. Actual use speeds will be less than maximum speeds and use speeds may vary greatly depending on a variety of factors.

Asymmetrical Digital Subscriber Line (ADSL): ADSL provides high speed internet allowing for faster download speeds and slower upload speeds. The nature of internet traffic typically melds well with this technology as the consumer typically makes a request (small amount of data) and receives a larger amount of information in return. The maximum amount of data provided upstream is 1.5 Mbps. ADSL is a rate adaptive technology, meaning that if your line is not capable of 1.5 Mbps upstream (or Down), it will get as close as it can to the desired bandwidth.

Cable Modem Service (CMS): CMS service varies depending on many factors. PINE utilizes the DOCSYS standard in its deployment of CMS. The equipment utilized is engineered to provide a user experience as outlined in the Service Offerings below.

Details regarding speeds, bandwidth limitations and pricing are available on the rate card available at PINE’s office.

COMMERCIAL TERMS

Monthly prices, usage-based fees, and fees for early termination or additional network services are handled on individual case basis.

PRIVACY

Network management practices rarely entail individual specific inspection of network traffic. PINE may retain personal customer information in its regular business records as long as someone is a customer or until no longer needed for business or legal purposes. This information is not provided to third parties or used by the carrier for non-network management purposes except as permitted or required by law; however, to the extent, PINE uses third-party service providers in connection with its provision of the Service, PINE may share customer information with such providers.
